Brussels, 09 October 2018 – At Ceemet's General Assembly of Presidents and CEOs, its current President Diego Andreis and Vice-President Ineke Dezentjé Hamming - Bluemink were unanimously re-elected for a second term of two years until 2020.

Speaking for Europe's tech & industry employers, Ceemet members made with this result a strong statement for the work the successful duo has achieved over the past years.

Don't change a winning team

Diego Andreis' expertise as Managing Director of a family owned multinational company that won several innovation awards, has been of great value. Advocating as of the beginning the importance of digital skills, the support of SME's and bringing Europe closer to its entrepreneurs, he is a much-demanded voice from industry.

Ineke Dezentjé Hamming - Bluemink completes the team with her in depth knowledge on the needs of industry as President of FME, the Dutch employers' organisation, and her European wide political network.

Ceemet Director General, Uwe Combüchen says: "Ceemet provides in depth business insights. Diego Andreis and Ineke Dezentjé Hamming - Bluemink embody that intelligence. We talk a lot about digitalisation and the impact on the world of work and our President and Vice President are very knowledgeable on the topic. Being i.a. member of the Commission's High-Level Industrial Roundtable «Industry 2030» shows that others recognise their added value too."
